Phasing out faxes

LPI is currently decommissioning fax services in line with a directive to eliminate all fax use across the Department of Finance, Services and Innovation (DFSI).

The majority of LPI's fax services will be removed by 1 January 2016. LPI legal services and land titles client services fax facilities will remain operational until 29 February 2016. Alternative arrangements are in progress for these two fax services. Further advice will be issued to customers early next year.

LPI's fax lines are infrequently used these days, with group email addresses generally available for customers to send digital documents. LPI business units with customers who regularly communicate by fax have already advised them of alternative arrangements.
